Understand and continually communicate wishes

OPPORTUNITIES

- Culturally sensitive conversations
- Embedding ACP into person-centered care approach

"It is so important that staff can differentiate between their beliefs and the client's wishes."

"We knew what we wanted, but we didn't know how to make everyone else know."

"They listened to me.

They understood-I knew what my husband wanted. If they didn't understand, they asked. We all agreed."

Reflect decisions in care plans and legal papers

Communities of practice

- Palliative care teams and networks programs
- Collaborative assess, treat & refer process

- · CHANGES in patients' wishes not shared
- Varied ACCESS and USE of tools and documentation
- Lack of SHARING between care settings and providers

Advance care planning is an ongoing process of making decisions about the care individuals want to receive if they become unable to speak for themselves.

INCLUSION OF ADVANCE CARE PLANS INTO CARE DELIVERY

This Experience Map is a visual representation of opportunities and gaps shared by subject matter experts, patients and caregivers in translating advance care wishes into the planning and delivery of home care. Experiences were identified through a stakeholder workshop, telephone interviews and online surveys. Input was validated through an E-Delphi survey with a panel of experts.

- Minimal ACCOUNTABILITY and tracking systems
- Varied understanding of LEGAL and ETHICAL obligations
- Lack of PROCESSES to include decisions into care planning

"My sister's ACP was simple—she wanted to be at home with her family around her-not in hospital, not in a swirl of chaos in an emergency department."

needs. It's also strategies to preserve my dignity, quality of life and a plan to meet my spiritual needs - this is often neglected."

"The plan was well thought out and in theory was a good plan. The execution and delivery on the plan were what fell short."
